

M&A private equity & banking and finance law blog |Banking law firm Crefovi

by Crefovi - Friday, September 07, 2012

<http://crefovi.com/london-law-firm-for-creative-industries-faqs/crefovi-blogs/london-private-equity-law-firm-crefovi-ma-private-equity-law-blog/>

London private equity and banking law firm Crefovi is delighted to bring you this M&A private equity & banking and finance law blog, to provide you with forward-thinking and insightful information on the financial and corporate issues for the creative industries

London law firm for the creative industries Crefovi advises, in particular, the fashion and luxury goods sectors, the entertainment, music and film sectors, the art world & high tech market.

We support our clients out of London, Paris and globally, in finding the best solutions to their various legal issues relating to banking and finance law, either on contentious or non-contentious matters. We also advise our clients on private equity and private equity financing matters, capital markets issuances and mergers and acquisitions.

Crefovi has experience representing either the lenders and financiers, or the borrowers and invested businesses (which are all in the creative industries).

Annabelle Gauberti, founding partner of London entertainment and media law firm for the creative industries Crefovi, is also the president of the International association of lawyers for creative industries (ialci). This association is instrumental in providing very high quality seminars, webinars & brainstorming sessions on legal & business issues to which the creative industries are confronted.

ERROR: Blog-in-Blog shortcodes can only be used in pages, not posts.