Demonstrated excellence as a London-based fashion and luxury law firm

Crefovi Consumer Products & Retail Industry Group, which federates its fashion lawyers in London practicing the law of luxury goods & fashion, has demonstrated its understanding of clients' needs in this highly competitive business environment. The success of fashion & luxury law firm Crefovi, in advising companies of all sizes in markets around the world, stems from the practice's dedication to helping businesses grow and succeed while protecting brand equity.

Law of luxury goods & fashion

Crefovi is a London-based fashion and luxury law firm. Its fashion lawyers in London, who are part of Crefovi's Consumer Products & Retail Industry Group, have been and are a major contributor to the development of the fashion law field. One of Crefovi's partners, Annabelle Gauberti, invented the concept of "droit du luxe" (law of luxury goods and fashion) in 2003 and extensively published about it, sensing that fashion law would become a legal discipline per se, in order to respond to the specific legal needs of either global luxury conglomerates or fashion designers.
