Crefovi Paris office combines regional knowledge with experience in innovative, market-leading transactions, complex cases and regulatory matters.

Crefovi Paris office regroups lawyers who provide comprehensive services to public and closely held corporations, emerging companies, private equity firms, financial institutions and other organisations in France and throughout the world.

Combining deep understanding of the French market with a vibrant international practice

Very few law firms operating in the French market can match the depth of Crefovi practice as well as the robust technology that underpins its performance. The lawyers in Crefovi Paris office maintain in-depth knowledge of client's industries, including the economic and regulatory environments in which they operate. They are particularly active in the art, financial services, hotels and leisure, life sciences, luxury and telecommunications sectors, advising both listed and emerging companies. Crefovi added value in the French market lies in its ability to provide both transactional advice and litigation counsel in core practices such as:
